Presidents Cup is a prestigious event

Shiv Kapur
The Presidents Cup is one of the most prestigious tournaments on the golfing calendar: It is my dream to one day be part of the International team. It is a big honour to be picked for either side - the US or International - as only the top 12 make it to the teams (though the top three in the world are missing because they are all Europeans). There is no prize money or appearance fees but everyone still wants to be a part of it. There are so many tournaments that offer huge amounts in prize money today, yet the Presidents Cup attracts the biggest names of the golfing world like Tiger Woods and Phil Mickelson. Day 1 on Thursday ended with the US in the driver's seat at 4-2 after the foursomes. The big match-up of the day was Tiger and Steve Stricker against Adam Scott and KJ Choi but the American pair went down 6 and 7, without winning a hole, and ended up matching the worst loss in Presidents Cup history.
